Acumen Fund Fellowship

<https://acumenacademy.org/fellowship/>

Established in 2006, the Global Fellows Program is a 12-month fellowship for individuals dedicated to serving the poor and who have the business and operational expertise, and moral imagination needed to effect long-term social change. You must have 5 years of professional experience to apply. The fellowship begins with an eight-week training program in the Acumen New York office, where Fellows learn about business models for the poor, hone their leadership skills, and learn more about Acumen. After training, each Fellow works for the CEO or senior management of an Acumen investee on a critical business issue facing the organization. Fellows have worked on projects ranging from leading operations of a new business unit at a cotton ginnery in Uganda, to expanding the clinic network of a pharmacy company in India, to developing branding strategies for a microfinance institution in Pakistan.

Open to applicants of any nationality, and we are prepared to do what is possible and reasonable to address Fellows' visa and immigration issues.

AAMC Financing Your Medical Education

<https://students-residents.aamc.org/premed-resources/financing-your-medical-education>

The Inter-American Press Association was established in 1942 to defend and promote the right of the peoples of the Americas to remain freely informed through independent, responsible and objective journalism that contributes to a better common understanding. In 1954, the IAPA established its Scholarship Fund for American and Canadian reporters, editors and newsroom professionals (columnists, bloggers, caricaturists, VJs, photographers, etc.), early in their careers, to study journalism or related fields at the graduate level at accredited universities in Latin America or the Caribbean; and for Latin American and Caribbean journalists to study similarly in the U.S. or Canada. The program does not grant visas, which procedure must be completed by scholarship applicants. Starting with the 2020 scholarships, all applicants also may apply to study at universities accredited by the Latin American Council for Accreditation of Education in Journalism and Communication (CLAEP). Applicants must be native to countries in North and South America, or the Caribbean; reporters, editors or managers at newspapers, broadcasters or digital news media platforms; between the ages of 21 and 35 years old at the date of application; with mastery of the language of the program of study. Applicants from the U.S. and Canada must provide certification from a recognized authority of proficiency in Spanish; or Portuguese for those going to Brazil. Latin American applicants must pass a TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language) language exam. Last application cycle was in 2019-2020, so please contact the program directly for more information (becas@siapiapa.org).
